

Hello again from the 2nd grade classroom! Students have been very busy at work since the holiday break. We are just starting our poetry unit and learning about rhythm, rhyme, repetition, word choice, and alliteration. In math we have made it into adding and subtracting three digit numbers. It is so wonderful to see all of their hard work being put to use with these new skills they are learning. We are also currently learning of the many Americans who helped shape our country into what it is today. Students were very intrigued to learn about Martin Luther King, Jr., Susan B. Anthony, Benjamin Franklin, and many others. 2nd graders are also learning about the earth long ago. They have gotten to be “paleontologists” and discover fossils and do the work of cleaning them. We are half-way through the year and accomplished so much, but have a lot left to do.
